

Mr. Timothy Nelson

tnelson@stjohnparish.org

M.A. in Political Justice Studies Chicago State University

MoT Online Teaching, and Social and Literary Studies University of Illinois at Springfield

B.A. Board of Governors in History Chicago State University

I love SJE because...it allows me as a team member to share my joy for learning and for understanding the world around us with students. It is a privilege to cheerfully interact with the many stakeholders of the SJE community.

We go above and beyond...just providing rigorous curriculum delivered in accordance with all established guidelines, but by delivering content in a teacher-positive, politically-neutral fashion. Understanding that a safe learning environment extends beyond the physical security of students and stakeholders into the psychological, social, and emotional dimensions of the learning environment.

Learning is fun... and challenging, and exciting, and enlightening, and easy, and empowering! And it all begins with learning being relatable to each student's personal experiences. In gaining and strengthening skill fundamentals students engage in learning actions which form, shape, and measure their learning through inquiry tasks, digital explorations, reflective writing, hands-on and peer-paired experiences, 3-dimensional projects and more. The aim is to create a rich environment where students interact with content and others in safe and meaningful ways.